lectmen and Treasurer of Town of Brooklyn at Law Over Depositing Town's Funds-New Police Dog Escapes from Palicade Kennels-Gale Breaks Off Four Trolley Line Poles.

As the result of a disagreement be-tween the selectmen of Brooklyn and the treasurer of the town, George W the treasurer of the town, George W. Eastment, as to where the money of the town shall be deposited, Mr. Eastment is summoned under mandamus proceedings to appear before the superior court in Pulmain next Friday and show cause for refusing to deposit the funds of the town as directed by votes of the town and votes of the selectmen, as set forth in detail in the notice of the proceedings served on Mr. Eastment. Mr. Eastment has the option, to avoid the court proceedings, it is set forth, of commencing to use the bank designated by the selectmen as a depository on or before Tuesday of this week, and continuing to do so.

The selectmen of Brooklyn are Oliver F. Downs, Fred A. Card and John F. Fitzgerald. Monday of last week at a meeting of the board, Messrs. Downs and Card present, Mr. Fitzgerald being absent, it was voted that the selectmen of the town of Brooklyn designate the Danielson Trust company as the the Danielson Trust company as the depository of the funds of the town of Brooklyn which are to be deposited subject to check, and that the select-men direct the treasurer to deposit such funds of the town in this institu-

At a special town meeting in Brooklyn Feb. 25, 1898, called, among other things, to see what action the town would take with reference to the issuance of bonds for retiring outstanding indebtedness and for creating a sinking fund for the payment of such bonds as they would come due, the resolution passed included a provision that commencing with the year 1901. that, commencing with the year 1901, May 1, and annually thereafter during the life of the bonds, $932 be appropriated as a sinking fund, this sum to be invested by the town treasurer, but by and with the advice and con-sent of the selectmen, in some proper savings bank or other institution or security designated by law for the insecurity designated by law for the investment of trust funds. It is on this vote that the selectmen base their right to direct how and where the right to dairying and a clean milk supply.

There is to be a session of the supply that the right that the righ sinking fund shall be deposited. The information in the mandamus proceedings sets forth that in 1914 and 1915 the treasurer of Brooklyn depos-ited $932 each year in the Windham County National bank of Danielson, and that such deposits were made without the advice and consent of the selectmen and were not made in an a institution designated by law for the investment of trust funds. Mr. Eastment was not the treasurer during this period, however, Oscar F. Atwood then holding the office. Another vote passed by the selectmen at their meeting last Monday-directs the town treasurer to deposit the sinking fund in the Brooklyn Savings bank here, but, like the direction to deposit funds subject to check in the Danielson Trust company, he has

Mr. Eastment said Saturday afternoon that he was approached soon after his election as town treasurer by two citizens of Brooklyn who request-ed him to transfer deposits in the Windham County National bank to the Danielson Trust company. Mr. East-ment says he gave his visitors no satisfaction either way. Later the se-lectmen urged that the change be made and he contested their right to made and he contested their right to direct where the funds be deposited, and still contests it. As to the sinking fund of the town, that is in the Windham County National bank. Mr. Eastment called attention to the fact that he did not deposit it there, this having been done by his predecessor, Oscar F. Atwood, and Mr. Eastment further claims that he has never been requested or directed by the selectment. requested or directed by the selectmen to change this deposit to any other bank.
